prices for food in this country. The active crusade immediately begun by the Federal and State authorities to investi-gate this movement and discover if ad-vantage is not being taken of the present crisis by people in a position to profit is probably an excellent step. In war, however, there is a fundamental reason for a rise in the price of all foodstuffs, and war on the scale which is now being waged in Europe should tend to inflate waged in Europe should tend to inflate prices for some time to come. There is always the tendency also for people to lose their heads somewhat in a crisis of thiz kind. On the first impulse foodstuffs are "hoarded," that is to say unusually large supplies are accumulated. The consequence is that all the effects of The consequence is that all the effects of actual war are manifested where

The authorities last week made arrangements by which cash orders to buy or sell might be matched against each other. But it is easy to see that the test of an open market must be delayed for some little time longer. How much nearer a decisive battle by the allied armies in Europe might bring the date of the opening of the ex-change, as also the resumption of activity in other lines, is purely conjectural, but that factor undoubtedly enters into the question largely.

With the prospect for a very large demand for our agricultural products from Europe this year rather closer attention than has been paid lately will be paid to the size of our harvests. The progress of the crops in the last few weeks has been poor. The prodigal promise held out earlier in the season will not be realized, with the exception solely of winter wheat. Corn has done poorly, although it has not suffered the injury sustained last year. Generally speaking other crops are only fair. But if our crops are not up to expectations held crops are not up to expectations need out earlier they are large in comparison with the results obtained in the other great agricultural countries of the world. In Russia, Canada and Argentina the crops promised are all considerably below the 1913 totals.

Two expects that might under any other

Two events that might under any other circumstances have created a sensation were the decision against the company handed down by the Circuit Court in the Harvester dissolution suit and the announcement that the Government suit against the New Haven railroad had been settled. The decision against the Harvester company was not the disturbing factor it might have been. The case ing factor it might have been. The case will be appealed to a higher court. In any case the company was not accused of using unfair methods of competition, but of being too big rather than anything else. As to the effect of the proposed separation of the company into two parts, a person probably best qualified to know, George W. Perkins, has been quoted as saying that the stockholder would be the gainer, as he was in the cases of American Tobacco Company and Standard Oil Company, and the and Standard Oil Company, and the farmer, or ultimate consumer, would be

The settlement of the New Haven suit came as something of a surprise. It ap-peared to be in the nature of a com-promise dictated by a general desire on everybody's part to relieve the situas far as possible from awkward plications. Both sides have made cessions, and in doing its share the New Haven has fully protected the interests of the stockholders. The outcome of the affair ought to have a quieting effect

Three Year Five Per Cent. Gold Notes Due August 1, 1914 International & Great Northern Railway Co.

On July 31st this Committee asked for the deposit of the above-named notes in order to effect, under what it believed to be advantageous conditions, an extension thereof to February 1, 1917, with interest at 6%. Unforeseen circumstances have Unforeseen circumstances brought about a receivership of the railroad and property of the Company before this arrangement could be carried into effect, and have made it impracticable of execution at the present time.

In view of the Receivership, it is necessary that the Com mittee shall have such full powers as will enable it to act for the Noteholders in any situation that may arise. Accordingly, the Committee, representing a majority in amount of the Notes, has powers which the changed conditions have made necessary, under a protective agreement which is now in course of preparation and under which GUARANTY TRUST COMPANY 140 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, will act as depositary.

Holders of Notes are requested to deposit them at once with the Depositary. Notes so deposited should have attached thereto the August 1, 1914, coupon which should be accompanied by proper Federal Income Tax Certificates The Depositary will accept the Interim Receipts of Central Trust Company of New York, for Notes heretofore deposited with it.
